

TEMPLE EMANUEL

SHALOM ISRAEL MISSION

JUNE 14-26, 2005

LED BY: RABBI MARK JOEL MAHLER

Dear Friends,

There are many reasons for you to join me on Temple Emanuel's Shalom Israel Mission in June.

- You have never visited Israel before, and now the time has come.
- Or as you left Israel the last time, you promised yourself that you'd return again.
- Or you've always looked forward to a family trip to Israel.
- Or you're looking at last to connect with your Israeli mishpacha.
- Or you're curious to know if Israel is as beautiful and compelling as you've always heard.

Any reason alone or any combination of the above reasons will suffice. But ultimately, it distills down to this: you want to demonstrate your support for Israel in the most effective way possible at a time when Israel requires our support, and thus you know that this will be the most meaningful, memorable trip of your lifetime.

Enclosed is our itinerary with all the pertinent details. But our Shalom Israel Mission is spiritual as well as geographic. Our journey will engage mind, heart and soul, as well as body. We will fly to Israel by plane, but our Mission will really take off once we land. We will walk the streets and drive the highways of Jewish history and identity, and our spirits will soar. Floating on the Dead Sea, the lowest spot on earth, we will gaze up at a most unique vantage on heaven. We will see archeological excavations from millennia past that revealed God's promise for humanity's future. Like every Mission I have led to Israel, we will visit famous Jewish landmarks, and Christian and Muslim holy sites as well. They enhance the breadth and depth of Israel's meaning to humankind. One special feature of this Mission is our day with Rabbinic Human Rights and the opportunity to connect us with the Palestinian community.

As I have been writing in the Temple Emanuel Bulletin, next June will be an incredibly exciting time to be in Israel, as Israel plans to pull out of the Gaza Strip and take a bold move toward peace with the Palestinians.

Please join me. Please join all of us. You can call me at 412-279-7600. Call ARZA World, 888-811-2812 for details and to make this one of the most worthwhile commitments of your life.

Shalom,

Rabbi Mark Joel Mahler
